LEADERSHIP TEAM

JOSEPH DELIBERTIS
PRESIDENT

Joe founded D&S Elite Construction, Inc. in 2008 after 25+ years in the industry. As President, Joe oversees the day-to-day operations of D&S and is responsible for the overall performance of all construction projects and contracts.

Joe got his start in construction at age 10 working as a carpenter helper with his dad. After earning his Associates Degree in Building Construction at the Pennsylvania College of Technology in Williamsport, PA, Joe worked as a carpenter foreman, superintendent, and project manager, as well as being a partner in a multi-million dollar construction company before becoming President of D&S Elite Construction, Inc.

Allen manages the entire D&S Elite Construction, Inc. residential project portfolio. Working directly with clients, design professionals and trade contractors, Allen takes pride in delivering projects that exceed his clients' expectations and upholds the D&S Elite Construction, Inc. reputation for quality workmanship and exceptional service.

Allen's interest in construction began shortly after graduating high school when he was offered an opportunity to learn the finish carpentry trade. Allen spent the next 15 years as a lead carpenter refining his craft in some of southeastern PA's most prestigious homes, where he developed an appreciation for fine craftsmanship and an understanding and passion for the entire construction process. He then moved into construction management, bringing his extensive experience of working hands-on in the field to become a strong link between trade contractors, clients, and design professionals throughout the entire construction process.
